HYPNOTISM AND CRIME.

Dr. J. M. Charcot, in the Forum, considers a question that interested the RECORD-UNION when the Eyrard case was brought to the attention of the French Courts. The proposition in that case was to hypnotize the woman under arrest and induce her to go through the dramatic features of the crime, in the hope to thus gain a clue for evolving the truth. Dr.

Charcot puts this problem before his readers:

Set a subject to sleep and place him in a somnambulistic state. I then say to him: "You know, A; he is a consummate felon; I do not want to kill him, but you will kill him if he comes to you. He must die, and you will kill him without me. I will not stand by him without him. All that I told you will kill him if he

without me. I will not stand by him without

him. I will not stand by him without him.

His answer is, "Experimentally, yes."

But, he adds, fit subjects for such experimental tests are rare; mainly they are women, because their peculiar constitution renders them subject to hysteria, and hypnotism are near kin. Then, too, the subject, to be well under control, must be trained by repeatedly frequent hypnosis, and finally there is always the possibility of resistance to the suggestion of the operator.

While in the laboratory these "subjects" have been made to obey the suggestion to commit crime, the doctor, who is an expert in hypnotism and a foremost student of it, does not have much faith that in real life the hypnotized can be thus controlled. In the Eyrard case, we remember that the proposed experiment was to secure re-enactment of phases of the crime by the woman accomplice. But it appears to us that in such a case "suggestion" must be eliminated. For, if whenever hypnotizes the suspected criminal fails to suggest action, there is usually no result. But the doctor is confident that hypnotism can be made useful to the Courts, if handled by experienced, intelligent operators; so, too, it is a means to the cure or alleviation of human pain, but in the hands of the unskillful it is a dangerous weapon, and may, indeed be pretty soon to, result sadly to the patient.

The conclusion is reached also that when one claims to have committed crime under hypnotic influence, it is valuable to the Courts to prove by experiment whether the claimant is hypnotizable. The inference is left for us that if she proves not to be a "subject" her defense is weakened.

But we confess that such tests as that in a Court of justice would smack of the days of witchcraft, when, if a suspect with blasted, it was taken as proof of guilt, and she was then duly burned at the stake; but if she sank and was drowned it was assumed that she was with. Suppose that under the latter conditions the prisoner resisted or was not susceptible to hypnotization, would it not be cruelty to assume that she had not, therefore at another time been deprived of her free will agency?

Dr. Charcot admits that it is not possible to define the rules of expert testimony in the matter of hypnotism. If so, then it can never receive recognition as a means to the detection of criminals. But Dr.

Charcot gives two cases where innocence was established in the French Courts by hypnotic experiment. A man accused and protesting innocence, was hypnotized by Dr. Molet and made to perform the act with which he was charged. On being re-restored to a normal condition he had no memory of it, precisely as he had no memory of the original act committed in a first period of somnambulism.

So, too, a girl charged with theft, in a hypnotic state had her memory awakened, and repeated the crime, and her innocence was thus established—told to the satisfaction of a French

Court.

At a meeting of a trade union in San Francisco on Tuesday a proposition to contribute to a movement to raise a sum in this country among "German-American s" for the purpose of making Prince Bismarck a present was condemned. It was right action. As the meeting well declared, German-Americans have sworn allegiance to this nation, and it would be unbecoming in them to do otherwise.

European whose aristocratic and monarchical beliefs are all opposed to the American idea. However much men may respect the firmness of Bismarck and regret that he was removed by a hot-headed young Emperor, who lacks sense and experience, and, however much they may respect the masterly statesmanship of Bismarck, it remains that he is a representative of the idea of imperialism. He believes in class distinctions, and in the right of one to rule over another by reason of the accident of birth. He stands for mon-archism and against republican government in any of its forms. He cannot therefore be complimented in such a way as proposed with any propriety. The German-Americans who have started the movement to send him a testimonial should pause to ponder upon the impropriety of their action. If they are in sincerity Americans then they can be no longer Germans. They have foresworn allegiance to all princes and potentates, and as American citizens should not indulge in manifestations relating to the political affairs of another country to which they were one time attached. Bismarck has no love for free institutions. By birth and education he is the friend of the monarchical and the upholder of class.

He is a born intriguer.
